Dedication

In December 1986, after nearly 22 years of service and devotion to the greater good of the SMU Community, Mary Louise Walsh, Associate Dean of Students decided to retire. In appreciation of her efforts we, the Editors of the 1987 edition of the Scrimshaw, wish to dedicate this Yearbook to Dean Mary Louise Walsh, a woman we admire and whom we shall miss.

At the May 29th, 1987, annual Honors Recognition Dinner, Dean Walsh was presented with the Distinguished Service to University Award. We are reprinting the words of that award as our dedicatory message. We believe they express most aptly our feelings and those of the students for Dean Walsh.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE TO UNIVERSITY AWARD Dean Mary Louise Walsh

Mary Louise Walsh, Professor of French, the University's first and only Dean of Women, Associate Dean of Students, you have shepherded hundreds of students through their intellectual and emotional coming of age. For more than two decades you have been their teacher, counselor, role model and friend.

Fulbright scholar, Smith-Mundt grantee, world traveler, you gave eloquent voice in your classroom to the language and culture of France. French, however, was not the only thing you taught your students. You also taught them independence of mind, appreciation of excellence, a broad world-view, the value of striving. Most important, you taught them without words an impressive lesson in caring. That caring did not stop at the classroom door, nor was it left behind when you made the transition from professor to administrator. As the university's first female Associate Dean of Students, you continued to give full expression to your deep concern for young people and your talent for nurturing the best that was in them.

You have been with this university from its earliest days, present at its first steps, steadfast in its trials, and dedicated to its continuing development. Your colleagues have prized your loyalty and dependability, your linguistic expertise, your cosmopolitan outlook and polish. Those young adults whose lives you have enriched have valued you for the same qualities, but most of all because they have always known they were first in your mind and heart.

For your legacy of caring and your inestimable contributions to this institution, we the students of Southeastern Massachusetts University pay you tribute.

President John Brazil

Congratulations to the members of the class of '87.

Some years ago John Updike wrote a short, quasi-journalistic piece entitled "Splendid Splinter Bids Hub Fans Adieu." As drenched in unmodified superlatives as the bleachers at Fenway are drenched in sun during a cloudless August afternoon game, the narrative describes Ted Williams' last game as a Red Sox, comparing his prowess with the bat to the skills of a great ballerina, a virtuoso musician, and a number of other authentic geniuses.

I remember the piece for two reasons. First, because I've always admired Williams' ability with a bat: he was, unquestionably, one of the finest hitters the game has seen. Second, because as I read (and while I fully assented to Williams' greatness), I became distinctly uneasy with the welter of uncritical, unqualified metaphor and simile.

Updike had gone too far, claimed too much. He had lost the restraint, the discipline, that an artist—or journalist—must maintain. The very love for his subject that had called him to write, betrayed him. It pushed his prose to excess, and in the process, weakened his superlatives and rendered them unfit for other uses.

As each of you writes in mind and memory your college career, do not "bid it adieu." Your passage at SMU was, I suspect, the best of times and the worst of times—and both and neither (or it should have been!). If nothing else, I hope it has given you an appreciation for great and genuine achievement. It also, I hope, has given you the ability to measure achievement with disinterest.

Sincerely,

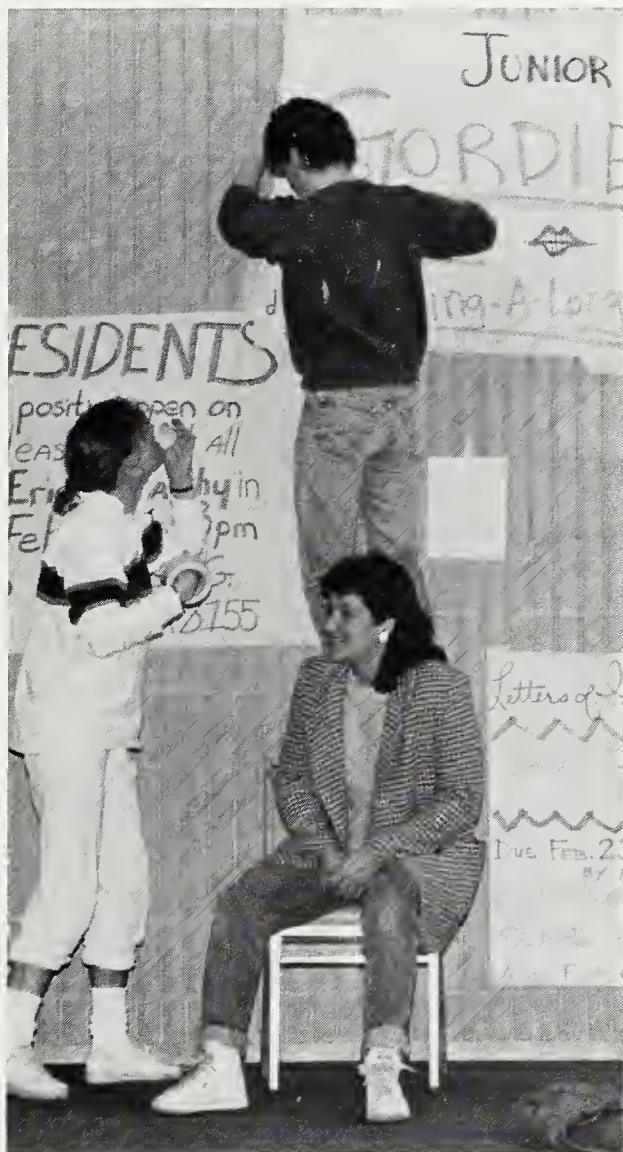

John R. Brazil
President

The promise of today is captured in your yearbook. It has given you today, to cherish forever. Unfortunately, there are no future yearbooks in life to catch your hopes and dreams in. So live each day so that you may remember every second in a "mental yearbook". We can only believe that your future will have as many memorable and fun times as your time here at S.M.U. has contained.

We are very grateful to our Advisor, Dean Donald Howard, for his patience and guidance throughout the year. I would also like to thank Norval Garnett, as our Jostens' Sales Rep. Norval's advice and direction helped us to accomplish an inventive book. Much appreciation is lastly given to: the Torch, Manny Pereira, Alma Cummings, the Imagemakers-as the campus photographers. Tom Barbaro-my assistant editor and everyone else who has contributed to Scrimshaw 1987. Congratulations and Good Luck Class of 1987.

Take one day at a time and string all those days together like the precious things they are . . . instead of trying too hard and promising yourself too much. I can't promise you today with the hope and belief that there is a beautiful tomorrow in store for you.
